The Wheeling Times relates the following:

Sometimes very awkward little episodes are enced very innocently by unsophisticated travelers, much to the amusement of better posted bockers on An instance of this kind occurred list week at the Spring House. On Wednesday evering hady and gentleman arrived from the Central Disto train, and as soon as they were landed from the 'line proceeded to the ladies' perior, where they remained. Mr. Henry, the clerk, it dring the gen leman was not inclined to make any demonstratio, toward registering their names, walked up stairs and found our gentleman seated in very loving proximity to bis fair companion.

Mr. Henry presented a curd and pencil, at which the gentleman stared in undisguised natorishment, saying, "Say, you, Mister, wots that alsout?" After an explanation, be tegistered his rame as Mr. Chas. Daylor, Columbas, Ohio, and the lady as Missillenretta Daylor, of the same place. The clerk thought from their actions that their relations savered more of marriage than blood, and hexarded the question, "Will you have separate rooms." The lasty, for the first time, spoke, saying quite sharply, "Yes, air, certainly," and down stairs has went, not more than half salisfied.

When time for returing came, built were shown.

Money versus Illustanis.—A correspondent of a Worcester paper relates the following incident.

Just as the train was about starting for Greeoticided on Friday morning, on the Versuott and Massic consents railrend, a sprightly little within at with a child took a seat in the circ near where I was sixting.

The cars were beginning to move, and the little woman looked anxiously through the end window of the rear car for the purchase of lickets, &c.

The speed of the cars increased and the woman looked neare acvious. The husband is long as a season. It is now the wife sturn to iry what she can do. In agony she implores the conductor and envision that the she will be first and only the season. It is now the wife sturn to iry what she can do. I agony she implores the conductor and the husband is left, but he can't help that. "I am starting on a journey, and cau't get along without my hu-hand," "Then let him attend to his business the next time," was the cold nawer. "But," says the keen Vankee woman, "I have no money with me." The brakes were applied; and the cars brought to a stand still, and the panning husband enters the cars, to the delight of all the passengers, especially of his wife Moral—morey will stop a train of cars much quicker than husband is for a stand still, and the panning husband enters the cars, to the delight of all the passengers, especially of his wife Moral—morey will stop a train of cars much quicker than husband is for cars much quicker than husband is for cars much quicker than husband is for a stand still, and the panning husband enters the cars, to the delight of all the passengers, especially of his wife Moral—morey will stop a train of cars much quicker than husband is for a stand still, and the panning husband enters the cars, to the delight of all the passengers, especially of his wife Moral—morey will stop a train of cars much quicker than husband is for a season."

We have thought, that, at this time when the Whig bosts of Kenturky and of the South are mar-shalling with such zeal and unanimity under the tenner of the Opposition, wa could not perform a ore acceptable service than to lay before our readere a full report of the proceedings of the late en-thusiastic Whig rally in the city of New York. We tionastic Whig raily in the city of New Iora. Verance accordingly suread it before them in the Journal of Io-day. Of course no one at all interested in political subjects will omit its careful perusal. It is a frank and noble response from the North to the movement just inaugerated under such cheering and splendid auspices in Virginia and Kentucky and Tennessee. There are statesmen and patriots yet in the more all North. the grand old North. The editor of the Democrat calls on us to pro-duce any constitutional warrant for the power of Congress to logislate for the Territories. Our Congress to logislate for the Territories. Our neighbor, having set aside as unantherized the uniform practice of the government from its foundation, put down the established construction of the Constitution as nothing, and repudiated scorafully the authority of the Supreme Court—for all these are solidly against his ridiculous denial of the supremacy of Congress over the Territories—demands of us to meet him on what he calls "the merits of this case." Very well, we shall gratify his humor. this case." Very well; we shall gratify his humor.

And we can do it very briefly.

Our neighbor asks us to abow a warrant in the Constitution for the power of Congress over the Territories. Here is one Congress shall have power to dispose of, and make all me-diss rules and regulations respecting, the territory or other property belonging to the United States. This is an express warrant. As, however, its exact scope has been and is still the subject of con-troversy, we prefer not to rely on it. Yet we hold that it is as full and comprehensive as it is express. cannot be successfully controverted.

There are however other warrants for the power s open to the objections of those who cavil at this. Here is one of these. The Constitution, after enugrees shall have power-Among the powers expressly vested in the Government of the l'nited States is that of admitting new States into the Union. The language of the The power of making laws for the Territories is necessary and proper for carrying into execution the power conferred by this clause. The Constitu-tion therefore grants the power. This view is recneaded to our neighbor by peculiar claims which we forbear to mention. But this does not exhaust the constitutional warrants for the power. Here is another. The Consti-tution vests the powers of declaring war and of making treaties in the tiovernment of the United States. These powers include the power of acquiring territory, and the power to acquire necessarily carries with it the power to govern. The Constituion accordingly confers the power to govern on Union is held by the Government in trust for the it is indispensible to the discharge of this trust. Strike out from the Constitution, therefore, every grant of power we have mentioned, and the power him on "the merits of this case." If he thinks he will fara any better in the sphere of pure argument han be has done in that of authority, we beg him by all means to come on. Sal The Dred Scott decision named that Concess has no power to prohibit allowery to the Territories.

The editor of the Democrat accepts the anthority of the decision on this point; because, he says, it corresponds with his own notice of things.

The Dred Scott decision also asserts, its whole argument on the point just mentioned directly pre-supposes, indeed, that Congress, subject to the constitution, is the sapreme legislative power of the Territories. The editor of the Damocrat rejects the authority of the decision on this point; because, he eays, it doesn't correspond with his own notion of His notion is that Congress not only has no power to prohibit slavery in the Territories but home to protect it or to prohibit or establish or protect any-thing else. He holds that Congress has no power to legislate for the Territories at all. He contends for Decline equatier-soversignty.

The editor of the Domocrat, it will be seen, rejects the most important part of the Dred Scott decision, the part which asserts that Congress has "the power coupled with the duty of guarding and protecting the owner in his rights," and avowedly would reject the whole, if he didn't approve the rest, which is exactly what the Black Republicans, who don't approve any portion of it, are doing with might and main. In attempting to vindicate himself be justified them. Really, is all that concarns the slavery practically our neighbor and the biggest Black Reican in the North are as near alike as two peas. The difference, such as it is, is not in favor of Yee, we do sneer at "the idea of a government without the power of making laws," just as we should sneer (if anyhody were simple enough to contend for the possibility of such a thing) at the idea of a general without the power of giving orders, or of a sna without the power of emilting ight and heat. Our neighbor's illustration is as brilliant as his idea. The Federal Government "can't make laws over the dumentic affarraof the States" simply because it fan't the government of those "affairs." It has no power because it doesn't exist. We presume that even our neighbor will admit that within It jurisdiction the Federal Government has the power of making a few laws and that It wouldn't be eatirely rational to deny it the power of making any; so the sneer is altogether well-placed.

We lasist on the appropriatoness of the sneer. The editor of the Democrat now denies fixly that Congress has any constitutional power to leg-islate for the Territories; a forteight ago he declared just as flatly that no one denied the existence of this power. "No one," was his language then, "holds power. "No one," was his language uses, that Congress cannot interfere with slavery is the that Congress cannot lateriere with alavery in the lagislation of the Tarritories." He now puts on a grave face and challenges us to produce the slightest constitutional warrant for the power! The editor of the Democrat under the keen pressure of our We hold in accordance with the anthority of the Supreme Court and the whole body of American statesmen that the Constitution gives Congress the power to legislate for the Tarritories. The editor of the Democrat not only denies this but asserts that the Dred Scott decision doesn't asstain it Hs maket this assertion in the face of the explicit and emphatic declaration of the Court that "FRE POWER IN CONGRESS IS UNQUESTION-Worse than this, he makes it in the teeth of his express repudiation in the name article of the authority of the Court on account of this very declaration! We are affaid that we have driven our neighbor out of his senses.

Post Office Business. Description. Get We hope our readers and the Cincinnati Commercial will pardon as for the attention we bestow on the editor of the Democrat this morning. The fact is, our excellent neighbor axands so fair that we can't help hitting him. As a general thing as when we read one of his set articles we feel like a sub-lirishman who twisted the elaphant's trunk. 'It is was impossible," and Pappick "the reside a mag of the control of the cont was impossible," anid Patrick, "to resist a nece you sould pull with both hands." It is only just to say however that the luxury in which we indulge is attended by none of the perils which dashed the sport Company, who expects to have it completed in ten or twelve days. —Mobile Advertiers.

Post (office Husiness —During the quarier ending March 31, there were sold by the Postoffice Department postage stamps and stamped envelopes, giving an increase of $311,093 over the receipts for the quarter ending Itec-merely 13. This does not, however, prove any increase in correspondence, but he postumaters throughout the country shows that been a distinction, and nevelopes. The only available data for arriving at the state of the correspondence of the country shows that there has actually been a diminution, and hence a falling off in the postal revenne. —Washington Riar.
